The Fabric Workshop and Museum (FWM) is an internationally acclaimed contemporary art museum devoted both to the creation and presentation of innovative works of art. It is a place where artists are free to pursue their wildest creative imaginings unfettered by expectations.

Into the Wild takes FWM into the great outdoors for an end-of-summer benefit evening (Monday, September 12, 2022). Inspired by FWM’s mission of “Collaborating with artists, revealing new possibilities,” Into the Wild guests will have the chance to experience first-hand the fun, experimental, and unexpected nature of artmaking, all while supporting FWM’s artist, education, and community programs. In addition to artmaking, shopping, art displays, and the chance to mingle with past, present, and future FWM Artists-in-Residence, the event will feature a performance by John Jarboe and the Bearded Ladies Cabaret.

You are invited to support FWM by sponsoring Into the Wild.

ABOUT FWM

For more than 40 years, The Fabric Workshop and Museum (located in Center City Philadelphia) has provided artists at all stages of their careers with the opportunity to experiment with new materials, media, and techniques and push their creative boundaries. By collaborating with FWM, Artists-in-Residence take their work in fresh and often unexpected directions. The resulting exhibitions not only break fresh creative ground but bring artists’ work to new audiences. Among the more than 400 artists who have collaborated with FWM are Roy Lichtenstein, Betty Woodman, Louise Bourgeois, Carrie Mae Weems, Anish Kapoor, Sonya Clark, Richard Tuttle, Sarah Sze, Yinka Shonibare, William Wegman, Joan Jonas, and Nick Cave. FWM’s collection of more than 5,000 works of art – as well as archived process materials (video, prototypes, notes) and publications – represents a veritable chronicle of contemporary artmaking in the late 20th and early 21st centuries.

From its inception, FWM has also been an education center for Philadelphia youth. Its Apprentice Training provides burgeoning young artists with technical and vocational skills while introducing them to new approaches to creative expression; and its Onsite Studio brings much-needed art education into primary and secondary school classrooms. FWM creatively engages its community through outreach initiatives and partnerships, with inclusivity at the center of everything it does.
